Grain Yield Large

20-42 Bushels Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The wheat harvest in southwest Nebraska was in full swing Thursday and yields were putting to shame the early estimates.
And the harvest in the southeast—with yields reported as high as 75 bushels an acre—were termed “miraculous” by State Agriculture Director Ed Hoyt Thursday.
Hoyt explained that factors such as the early dry spell and dry weather in southern states, which helped keep rust down, and Nebraska’s favorable June weather were responsible.
About southwestern prospects, Hoyt said they were brighter than early predictions. Six weeks ago, it looked as if there would be very little wheat, he said.
Test weights of the grain have been described as exceptional in Red Willow County where yields are also high.
Yields there range from 20 to 42 bushels an acre and the grain is testing 60 to 63 pounds.
The harvest is just starting near Haigler in Dundy County. The only discouraging report in that county comes from an area where wind erosion and drought have taken their toll.
John Ham, manager of the Independent Elevators at Benkelman, says yields are averaging 30 bushels. Protein content is lower than in 1954, he said. The lack of box cars is being felt there.
Wheat ‘Best Ever’
Cars are also needed at Trenton according to Robert Schmitt of the Trenton Co-op. Hitchcock County yields are averaging 15 to 38 bushels an acre.
H. D. Bevan of the Curtis Grain Co. in Frontier County said the wheat there is the best ever. The yield has ranged from 25 to 40 bushels in the harvest which will last another week.
Bevan said there is no car shortage there.
The manager of Imperial Equity, Cloyd Nesmith, said yields in Chase county are running from 20 to 35 bushels. It will take about 10 more days to wind up the cutting in the eastern half of the county. Cutting will begin Monday in the west.
More cars are needed there, Nesmith said.
Some On Ground
In Furnas County, John Olivini of the Uring Grain Co. in Arapahoe said the average in that area is 28 bushels with the range from 17 to 40 bushels. The wheat is of good quality.
Jim Fox of Equity Co-op in Edison said wheat is being poured on the ground there. The new elevator there holds 205,000 bushels.
Most of the wheat in that vicinity is running 35 to 40 bushels an acre—much better than expected.
Clarice Rogers of Rogers Grain, Beaver City, said most grain there is running 30 to 35 bushels with the range 25 to 50. Farmers are pouring the overflow of wheat on the ground. The harvest in that area should be finished by the end of the week.
Meanwhile reports of box car shortages halting progress in the wheat harvest at many elevators in the southeastern portion of the state continued to flow in.
Elevator operators and farmers in Jefferson and Thayer counties called the grain shipping problem serious with activity at many points completely stopped.
Wendell Sugden, manager of the Farmers Union Elevator at Fairbury, said his elevator hasn’t “turned a wheel” since Monday noon.
And elevators at Jansen and Alexandria piled bushels of wheat in the street by the thousands.
/Shortage Called ‘Terrible’
Hollis Wolf, manager of the Cooper Elevator at Diller, called the box car shortage “terrible.”
Elevators in south central Nebraska reported that most of the good or summer fallow wheat has been harvested and they are now receiving wheat of poorer quality and lower yields.
Storage was indicated as a problem in that area also with the large Morrison-Quirk Grain Co. elevator at Hastings almost filled.
Crop experts and farmers in the Panhandle said western Nebraska wheat harvesting still is about two weeks away.
They say that prolonged rainy weather has delayed the start of the harvest but also should produce one of the best crops in many years. Exceptional yields are anticipated in the southeast corner of the Panhandle.
On veteran Cheyenne County wheat grower said he has never seen wheat with larger heads.

Press Hunt For ‘Mad Dog’ Killer

...Try Made To Burn Body

CHICAGO (AP) — The discovery of the beaten, burned body of an 8-year-old girl Thursday touched off a search for a killer who was branded a “mad dog.”
The victim was Mary Manzo, a brown-eyed, dark-haired child who had been in the third grade in a public school.

Three street sweepers found the tiny body in a long, dim underpass beneath the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at 46th St. and Normal Ave. on the South Side.

Detectives said the body had been burned in an attempt to destroy it.
Coroner Walter E. McCarron viewed the Mary Manzo body and termed the slayer a “mad dog.”

Officials moved 100 extra policemen into the area-east of the stockyards in a hunt for the killer.

Sex Assault
Police Commissioner Timothy J. O’Connor said the girl probably had been “sexually assaulted and then murdered.”

The body was clad in a white blouse and pink skirt. Mary was wearing ghem when she last was seen alive Monday evening. But her red tennis shoes and underwear were missing.

Smudges of mud and a darker substance—possibly coal—were discerned. They indicated the body had been in a field or basement before it was placed in the underpass.

Harry Glos, the coroner’s chief investigator, said Mary had been struck a hard blow on the right side of the head. He added that both of her eyes were discolored. He estimated death had occurred at least 48 hours earlier—possibly on the night she vanished.

Hot Search
“We think the killer may have kept the body on his own premises,” said Capt. Frank Reynolds, “and then took it out and dumped it when the search of the area got too hot.”

Mary lived with her father, Daniel, 45, a steel worker, her mother and five brothers in a Wentworth Ave. home about a mile southeast of the place where her body was found.

Her mother, Lucy, 28, sent Mary to a drug store Monday evening to buy a nursing nipple. A clerk reported she made the purchase and left.

Police began checking a report that another child had seen Mary forced into an automobile near her home Monday evening.

Mary’s mother and an aunt, Mrs. Maria Dugo, went to the underpass to identify the body. The mother collapsed when she reached the scene. But the aunt looked upon the body and screamed: “That’s her. Oh, my God, that’s her.”

Employment At New High

Mitchell Sees Best Year In History
Credit Expansion Causes Some Worry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Mitchell reported Thursday that employment rose to a new high last month and added: “This should be the best year in history for American labor.”

Mitchell’s preview of forthcoming employment—unemployment statistics for June came as Congress moved another step toward fixing the federal minimum wage level at $1 an hour.

The House Labor Committee approved this figure 21-9 after defeating, by a 15-15 tie vote, a Republican move to hold the increase to 90 cents an hour as requested by President Eisenhower.

The Senate already has voted to raise the wage minimum from the present 75 cents an hour to $1, effective next Jan. 1. The House measure sets next March 1 as the starting date.

Ike Favors 90 Cents
Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that his proposal for 90 cents “is the correct one.” But he declined to say what attitude he would take toward a $1 minimum if it reaches him.

Mitchell announced that June employment figures show a “smaller than seasonal rise in unemployment.”

Asserting this will result in a seasonally adjusted unemployment level which would be the lowest in a year and a half, he added: “It seems to me that we can expect increased employment and declining unemployment in the fall.”

New minimum wage legislation is on the list of bills Eisenhower has said he would like to see enacted before congressional adjournment, now planned for July 30.

Demos Favor $1
The $1 figure has been favored by Democrats generally as a compromise between the 90 cents requested by Eisenhower and the $1.25 advocated by some Northern Democrats. No move was made in the House Committee Thursday for a $1.25 minimum.

The federal minimum wage law applies to about 24 million workers in interstate commerce. Proposals to expand coverage have been rejected by both the Senate and House Labor Committees.

By FRANK O’BRIEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government’s economic policy-makers are a bit worried about an increase in on-the-cuff deals during the current business boom.

There have been credit splurges in the stock market, consumer buying and home buying.

Despite concern over mounting indebtedness in these fields, federal policy-makers are still inclined to rely on indirect, rather than direct, controls to keep the boom from becoming dangerously puffed up on credit.

That inclination is strong, and it is fundamental to the Eisenhower administration’s whole economic policy.

But it does not exclude the possibility that the Federal Reserve Board may soon for the third time this year crack down on the stock market with a direct control by upping margin requirements.

Placed With Gains
The administration — and the Reserve Board—are delighted with the vast business improvement of the past year, most of it in the past six months.

The economic policy-makers in Washington are glad to see the nation’s investors give a big vote of confidence in the economic future by putting more money in the commercial stocks which represent the nation’s expanding productive machinery.

They are glad to see John Q. Citizen confidently using his expanding income to buy more furniture, cars, rugs, household appliances and whatnot—thereby creating a flow of new production orders that make for more and better-paying jobs.

And no one belittles the importance of the big splurge in building homes, churches, schools, stores and factories that did so much last year to tide the country over a recession and is now a strong factor in the business boom.

Then why the head-wagging? Part of it may be that economists are professional worriers, as capable of worrying about why things are so good as about why they aren’t better.

Right now, the worrying is over the amount of credit being used in the boom—the amount of the boom, that is, that isn’t paid for—prosperity on the installment plan.

Site Of Capture

Armed Jail Escapee Grabbed Near Fairbury

Lincoln Star Special
FAIRBURY — Richard Buckley, 27-year-old escapee from the Jefferson County jail, was recaptured here Thursday afternoon without a shot being fired.

Police Chief Joe Cook received a tip that Buckley, who escaped Wednesday night, was hiding in a garage near the home of Buckley’s in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bean in Bethel community, south of Fairbury.

After receiving the tip, six law officers including Chief of Police Joe Cook, assistant Chief Lewis Holloway, officer Don Cereny, Sheriff Dale Hughes, deputies Frank Knoke, and State Patrolman Charles Waldron surrounded the building where Buckley was hiding.

Cooke called the Buckley to “come out, you don’t have a chance.” Buckley’s wife, Barbara, also pleaded with the small gunman to come out.

Buckley asked for two minutes to make up his mind. After the delay, Buckley exited the building with his hands up. The escapee had left a fully-loaded .22 caliber automatic pistol on a bench in the garage before surrendering.

Beatrice police had been called and were on their way to Fairbury to assist in the capture, but their help wasn’t needed. They were notified just before arriving in Fairbury that the capture had been made.

Back in Jefferson County jail, Buckley said he was “sorry to have caused people trouble. Everybody, including the officers, has been nice to me,” he added.

Buckley said he spent all night on the roof of the garage, “hopping from one side to other” as officers patrolled and dogs barked in the area.

“I thought that moon would never go down,” he said. He said he climbed down and went into the garage just before daylight. He did not bother a late model car parked inside.

Police found a coat, several $25 savings bonds made out to a Chicago man, and several forged payroll checks made out to “Stanley Pischowitz” of Chicago. Each check was made out for $107.

Police officers had conducted an attempted search for Buckley following his escape Wednesday night. He tore plumbing from his jail cell and climbed through the hole to freedom.

Buckley was serving a five-day sentence for drunkenness and was to be picked up by Illinois officers Thursday for parole violation.

Grand Larceny charges were filed against him in Jefferson County Court Thursday. He was charged with taking a .22 caliber gun from an office drawer in the Courthouse after his escape. The gun belonged to Sheriff Hughes.

County Judge Sam Gallamore said the hearing would probably be held on the larceny charge Friday.

White said a brand new ignition part was found in Krummer’s pocket. He speculated the men planned to replace a part that had been giving trouble.

Krummer was rushed to Lutheran Hospital at Columbus for treatment. Officials said his condition was critical because of heavy loss of blood.

The Safety Patrol said the two had been working in the hay fields of the area. After work, they took off from a farm field in the plane, owned jointly by them and a third person. After flying about the area for a short time the plane crashed.

2 Men Held In Vegas

Nebraskan Pal Of Bank Robber Ken Kitts

From Press Dispatches
LAS VEGAS, Nev.—Two men were jailed Thursday for allegedly touring Las Vegas’ glittering gambling casinos in efforts to convert more than $87,000 mostly in crisp new $100 bills to smaller bills and gambling chips.

Police theorized the bills, most of which bore consecutive serial numbers, were looted from a big robbery.

Booked for investigation of robbery after the money was found in their possession were Frank Ellsworth, 36, of Omaha, Neb., and Ray Wilson, 33, who identified himself as an ex-convict from Oklahoma.

Ellsworth has been described by officers as a buddy of Kenneth Kitts, convicted bank robber now in Alcatraz.

He was charged with Kitts in the 1950 burglary of the Granville, Iowa, bank but the charges were dismissed following a mistrial. Kitts was convicted in a separate trial.

Police said the bills were ruled out as “too new” to have been part of the loot in the $1,219,000 Brinks holdup in Boston, in 1951, or the $685,000 holdup of an armored car in Danvers, Mass., in 1952.

However, the FBI immediately began comparing the serial numbers of the seized currency with those of bills stolen in recent large-scale bank holdups, including the $465,000 robbery of the Chase-Manhattan bank branch in Queens, N.Y., last April 6.

Suspicious Action
Casino operators became suspicious of the two men noting they seemed more interested in exchanging their $100 bills than gambling. They said the pair would buy several hundred dollars worth of chips, make a few rolls at the dice table, then turn their remaining chips into cash.

Casino bosses alerted authorities. Police said Ellsworth had $6,100 in his pocket and Wilson $9,100, mostly in new $100 bills, when taken into custody.

$71,000 In Rooms
Police said they found $71,000 more in their room at The Dunes. This included $32,000 in new $100 bills, $15,000 in chips from nearly every casino in Las Vegas, and about $4,000 in smaller bills.

According to police, Wilson said he served a prison term in Oklahoma for a 1947 robbery in which his brother was killed.

Police said 100 of the $100 bills bore serial numbers consecutively from C-00001700-A to C-00001800-A. A spokesman for the FBI said the bills are about a year old.

Free On Appeal
Police said Ellsworth was free on an appeal bond in bank robbery cases in Omaha and Tulsa. Robbery charges have also been filed against him in Memphis, Tenn., and Wichita, Kan.

Ellsworth was convicted in Tulsa for taking part in a $31,000 robbery of a fashionable women’s clothing store there. He and two companions were captured within a few blocks of the store after a running gun battle with Tulsa police.

Met Kitts In Pen
The FBI said the notorious Kitts and Ellsworth met in the state penitentiary at Lincoln around 1941 where they both were held.

Ellsworth was indicted in 1951 at Cairo, Ill., for a $25,000 robbery there in April, 1951. He has a long list of arrests in various cities in the country.

Secrecy Lid Clamped On Post-Shot Polio Cases

...Reports 'Without Meaning'

WASHINGTON (INS) — The government placed a tight secrecy lid on its reports of polio cases among children inoculated with Salk vaccine Thursday on grounds they could be "without meaning."

A spokesman said the Public Health Service will no longer make public national or state totals unless there is a sudden jump in cases that might be traced to faulty vaccine.

This was a long-rumored reversal of a policy statement issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare June 13. On that day the government dropped its daily listing of polio cases among vaccinated children but promised to "continue to issue weekly reports of cases occurring among vaccinated persons."

A spokesman said Thursday these figures would continue to be collected but will no longer be published in the government's weekly disease report.

List Missing

The number of vaccinated children who contracted polio last week was mysteriously missing from a weekly report issued Thursday. Early in the day, spokesmen insisted the omission was due to a changed reporting system, and said the figures would be included in next week's summary.

After continued inquiries, a Public Health Service spokesman issued this statement: "The practice of issuing daily and weekly summaries of the cases of polio among vaccinated children began with the Cutter incident which is now over."

"Any figures, however, that give merely the number of vaccinated cases without relating them to the expected number of cases and the total numbers of vaccination could be without meaning."

The reporting of polio cases among inoculated children began shortly after state health officials reported cases among children who received vaccine made by the Cutter laboratories.

From late April until June 13, the reports were given daily with a breakdown of the states and companies involved. On June 13, the Public Health Service promised to continue the weekly reporting, without mentioning the companies involved. This system continued until last week when a total of 168 among six million vaccinated children had contracted polio since mass inoculations began.

Thursday's report, which did not include cases among vaccinated children, listed 333 cases of polio across the nation — an increase of about 12 per cent over the 277 cases of the previous week, but about 40 per cent below the 562 cases for the same week in 1954.

The government said that since the beginning of the year there have been 3,710 cases, compared with 4,697 in the same period of 1954. Since the so-called "disease year" began on April 1, there have been 2,645 cases, compared with 3,144 a year ago.

Utilities Protest Franchise Values

Five representatives of public utility companies appeared before the State Board of Equalization Thursday to protest their utility franchise assessments.

They were: D. E. McGregor of Gibbon, Nebraska Central Telephone Co. Morris Brogan of Omaha, Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. Thane Swenson of Kansas City, Mo., Great Lakes Pipe Line Co. Phil Johnson of Kansas City, Platte Pipe Line Co.

Ray T. Emery of Tulsa, Okla., Service Pipe Line Co.

In addition the board received letters of protest from the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Those appearing all contended that there was no franchise value in Nebraska.

The board took the protests under advisement and will announce its action later.

A 12 by 12 foot screen and combination slide and slide film projector, to cost $539.70, will be used for Sunday evening singfest programs and community sings during the summer months.

The Foundation was recently formed to receive and disperse funds for civic, welfare and educational programs.

An initial contribution of $50,000 was given by the Woods Charitable Fund in memory of Frank H. Woods.

History Repeating Itself

History is repeating itself in Nebraska, treading the same path twice, albeit for different purposes.

We are back into a period of well-drilling. It was a big business in the state's early days, for settlers had to have the water.

But today there are new wells going down. This time the reason is economic. Vincent H. Dreeszen, division hydrologist for the University of Nebraska, has noted that Nebraska land owners invested upward of $13 million in 1954 in new irrigation wells. He predicted that more would be spent this year and that the boom has not yet reached its peak.

An $18-million-a-year investment represents a pretty fair-sized business in anybody's thinking and for Nebraska it is a forecast of a rising economy and greater prosperity, for the water will spell greater crop production and even-normal harvests.

Nebraska is not an arid state. In some of its regions an annual rainfall of 30 inches is not unusual. But Nebraska is becoming ever more mindful of controlled moisture.

Land is becoming precious in Nebraska. Agriculture costs require greater farm income. Fortunately the state's resources of surface and underground water are great and dependable enough to meet the new problems.

Obstructing Progress

It has taken a lot of strength to build each higher civilization, and progress in one important way has always received impetus from pivotal discoveries, resulting in placing more power under man's control. From that generalization most Americans expect that atomic power will thrust the world forward with even greater force and reach than did the harnessing of steam and electricity.

But it has remained for a Russian writer to fill in the progress picture which we must admit is exciting. The Soviet magazine, "New Generation," recently said:

"The use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes will permit the correcting of many of nature's mistakes . . . the 'Turgai gates' might be blown up to open the way for Siberian rivers to flow south to central Asia and Kazakhstan . . .

irrigating such deserts as the Sahara, construction of a colossal power plant in the Straits of Gibraltar, building a dam that would direct the warm streams of the Pacific Ocean to the Arctic Ocean to warm the areas beyond the Arctic circle."

Such stimulating thoughts suggest that we have a few atomic jobs too, such as eliminating the Rocky Mountains, doing away with the cost and limitations of the Panama Canal by blowing out the whole isthmus, as well as manufacturing fresh water in abundance for all the nation's arid regions. But perhaps we had better wait. We might make a mess of things. It seems that one will have to be politically right-minded or the atomic age will never jell. This at least was the conclusion of the Soviet article. It observed that "these earthshaking schemes will have to wait for the end of capitalism."

Nebraskans On The Move

A significant note could be read into the mid-week action of the Gage County Fish and Wildlife Association, asking for the appointment of a southeast Nebraska businessman and sports-lover to the State Game Commission. The endorsement was not just a local one, but had the support of sportsmen in four southeast Nebraska counties.

There is growing disaffection for Nebraska's long-held official attitude toward the administration and development of the state's recreational resources. It is not so much an indictment of individuals as an incipient rebellion against objectives that are too limited.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

PALOS VERDES ESTATES, Calif.—Again in 1960 Californians are looking ahead confidently to a spectacular gain of seats in the lower house of Congress. On the basis of figures compiled and made public recently, it is the belief of political leaders in this state that the California delegation in the lower house will jump from 30 to 38, an increase of almost 33 per cent in California's representation numerically, chiefly at the expense of midwestern and eastern states.

A great deal has gone on in Nebraska in recent years. Once a minor figure in the matter of recreational water, the state now possesses a great deal as the result of its development of electric power, irrigation and flood control. The citizens of the state, too, have experienced a mounting hunger for better hunting and fishing. They feel that a more intensive and more extensive approach is past due, not only in the matter of improving the new resources, but in developing favorable water sites near populous centers such as the proposed recreational lake at Burchard.

It is the proper time for official Nebraska to take a long look at its recreational policies. There need not be controversy and there will not be if the long look becomes the "new look."

A Question Mark

The Argentine revolt has reached the aftermath stage, the shooting drama being over.

As the picture comes into focus, Dictator Peron seems to have subdued his political opposition and got rid of two of his own assistants as well. One of them was Eduardo Vuletich, leader of the Peron-dominated General Confederation of Labor. The other was Interior Minister Angel Berlinghi who played the most prominent role in the government's assault on the Catholic church. The latter's retirement causes one to wonder just what Peron had in mind, because after assailing the church he has now disposed of his lieutenant in charge of the attack and is reported to be seeking a rapprochement with Rome. And that development is further confounded by the fact that the government legally could have separated church and state without violence in the first place.

The mind of a dictator is hard to follow because logic and common sense seem not to have any influence. About the only deduction safe to make is that whatever a dictator does, his principle aim is his own self-interest.

Say, You're Sick

As if the Americans couldn't find anything to worry about, a psychologist, Dr. Gilbert Brighthouse, has fouled up everyone's Sunday afternoons by telling us that we are all in trouble.

People, he asserts, who wander about the house on the Sabbath are suffering from a guilt complex. They have a six day work habit and Sunday catches them evading.

Now that is indeed curious. Most of us have gone through our Sunday afternoons not realizing that we are mentally sick, that we are suffering from a subtle neurosis that is really getting us down. All we can say is that if the ailment causes no more pain than we have been feeling then there is no point in seeking to restore our health. It might hurt too much.

Highway Measure Help To Utilities

WASHINGTON—Something new has been added to President Eisenhower's superhighway bill — a cool billion dollars for telephone companies and power companies. Of Democratic origin, the billion dollars has already been approved by the Senate in the Gore bill, a substitute for the President's highway program.

So quietly was it maneuvered, however, that many congressmen didn't even know what was going on until a militant group of House Democrats, led by Congressman Brady Gentry of Texas, tried to knock out the money in the House Public Works Committee.

Since then the powerful public utilities lobby, spearheaded by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and working through a grassroots lobby of back-home companies, has been turning the heat on House members to retain the Senate proviso, despite Gentry's protests.

The argument goes back to the fact that private utilities have long been granted free right of way along our major highways for telephone lines, electric power lines, water pipes, and, to a lesser extent, gas pipelines. This makes it easier for a private utility to reach its facilities with repair trucks on paved roads in case of breakdowns.

In return, the utility companies sign contracts with most state road commissions providing that the companies pay the full cost of relocating their facilities along any highway that needs to be widened or diverted.

The Gore highway bill, however, changed this by saddling half of the utility relocating costs on the taxpayers. In the proposed superhighway program this would be a hefty item.

If the House goes along with Senate approval, it would cost the federal and state governments — in short, the taxpayers — not less than $800 million and conceivably more than $1 billion in the next 12 years.

Congressman Gentry, a former state highway official, happens to be a conservative Texan and a stockholder in private power companies that stand to benefit from congressional approval.

If the Senate proviso in the Gore bill is okayed, it would mean money in Gentry's pocket. However, unlike some of his colleagues, the Texan believes in putting the taxpayers' welfare ahead of his own. Other forthright House members who are supporting Gentry include Democrats Jack Dempsey of New Mexico and Tom Steed of Oklahoma.

A Minister's Rosebush Is Not For The Sitting

The hardest thing to explain about religion is human nature, especially to a 13-year-old tom-boy who has just sat down in the minister's cherished rose bush.

Merrilee, our daughter, is at the age when girls alternate rapidly between boisterous play and ladylike sedateness. The evidence indicates that it was in one of the boisterous moments that she sat down in the minister's rose bush. This was followed immediately by a spell of ladylike sedateness in which she looked up on the minister's reaction with considerable disapproval.

"He was awfully mad, daddy, and I don't think a minister ought to let himself be mean to people, do you? It isn't acting like the Bible says you should act."

The minister in question, while not our family's spiritual adviser, is a man of high reputation and, in fact, one of my favorite persons. Besides a personal liking for him, I felt a need to defend the cloth against unjust accusation. At the moment, I wished desperately that I were more of a theologian. I could not for the life of me recall my scripture with a direct bearing on the business of sitting in a rose bush. I spared for time in which to collect my thoughts.

"What did he say?"

"Well, he came out before I had time to get up, and he looked real mean when he saw the roses with me sitting on them, and he said I'd better go home and get something on the scratches, and why couldn't we kids play ball some place else?"

"That seems reasonable enough to me," I remarked. "In fact, it seems downright noble, under the circumstances. Maybe you were just mortified."

"You would be too, sitting on those thorns," she retorted, with a great deal of logic. "But it wasn't what he said. It was the way he said it. He looked awfully mad, daddy. I don't think a minister ought to get mad."

This put me on firmer intellectual ground. I said, "Look, gadget, if somebody didn't get mad at all the wrong things that go on in the world, we'd be in a pretty bad mess. Being meek about your own pride and tolerant about other people's faults doesn't mean you can't get a little, er, forceful in order to oppose things that are really evil. I don't think a man would be worth his salt who didn't get mad at the bad things. Maybe the difference is that his anger shouldn't be personal."

"Sitting on roses isn't evil," she stated.

She had me there. While I groped for a reply she had another thought. "And besides, it was very personal, too. You'd have thought so, if you had been sitting there. His roses have big thorns."

"Aha," I crowed, "there is the trouble! It was personal to you. It wasn't so much what the minister said — it was what your conscience said. You knew you shouldn't have been there. You see, it was just your conscience hurting."

See Thunder In '56 In Dixon-Yates Deal

WASHINGTON — Sen. Kefauver has begun a new attempt to trace a clear and complete history of the Dixon-Yates power project from its point of origin into the White House and out again in the form of a government-guaranteed contract.

President Eisenhower says Kefauver cannot have confidential information involving the administration. He also may cancel the contract now that the city of Memphis, plans to build its own power plant rather than become a customer of Dixon-Yates.

Whether or not the contract becomes academic, Democrats will pursue the story of its origins for a variety of intensely practical reasons. The overwhelming reason is purely political.

Contrary to predictions that Dixon-Yates was too complicated to catch on as a popular political issue, it contributed materially to the election of a Democratic Congress in 1954. With a presidential election coming up in which hot issues are scarce, they think it will serve their turn again.

This time they are reaching high. They hope to show the existence of an official cover-up in the White House itself.

The general public which does not recall details of great scandals is apt to believe that they burst full-blown upon the scene. Nothing could be further from the truth. Actually such scandals begin with minor details patiently traced through many channels by careful detective work.

Sen. Kefauver believes that he has now found a crack in the door to the secret Dixon-Yates deliberations. The crack was the chance mention of the name Wenzell in a minor memorandum. The Wenzell mentioned turned out to be Adolphe R. Wenzell, a former officer of the First Boston Corporation.

Mr. Wenzell was a Budget Bureau consultant last year at the time Dixon-Yates was under consideration. His company, First Boston, later proved to be the financial agent for Dixon-Yates.

Sensors were struck by these facts:

(1) Mr. Wenzell's name never appeared—nor did that of First Boston—in the supposedly complete chronology of Dixon-Yates ordered by the White House from the Budget Bureau and the Atomic Energy Commission.

(2) Budget Director Hughes testified that Wenzell did not participate in Dixon-Yates policy decisions while testimony before the Kefauver committee showed that Wenzell was present at both the original meetings on Dixon-Yates at the Budget Bureau and the Atomic Energy Commission.

(3) The First Boston Corporation, which was due for a $150,000 commission, relinquished it. Senators were skeptical of the reason initially given by First Boston which was that they felt they were doing a public service. But they had felt no such qualms about charging a full fee for financing a similar plant built in Ohio. (Copyright, 1955, By U.F. Syndicate, Inc.)

Tales Of 'Old Slippery' In Crystal Springs

By MONA B. PARKER

They've named him "Old Slippery" . . . and he may be a yellow cat and he may be a carp. No one knows for sure, but one thing they do know—he's elusive. He lives in Crystal Springs near Fairbury . . . he'll bite on doughbread or worms . . . and with each new broken line chalked up for the big one, the stories about him grow . . .

Leo Hughes, city park caretaker, played him for a half hour before his line broke . . . Dave Rhoden hooked him and his line, too, broke. Joe Boerner's line held, but the hook broke. And Clyde Marthis lost him . . .

A special prize has been offered for the one who brings him in, and Game Warden Roy Owen of Crete awaits the outcome with some apprehension, fearful that the size of the finny Fairburian may exceed that of the giant catfish of the Big Blue, his favorite story material. . . .

One little Fairmont junior farmer offers this recipe for dough ball fish bait . . .

"You dump some flour in a bowl and take a bunch of oatmeal and pour in with the flour. Hold the bowl under the faucet and run water in the bowl. Sometimes you get too much water in the bowl and have to dump in more flour and oatmeal. Then you pour a dab of vanilla and shake some cinnamon into the mess of goo and put your hands in the sticky stuff and mix it real good. Make a nice round ball from this junk and put it in the refrigerator overnight and you're ready to fish."

An Albion resident, long of hair and wit, has figured out a solution to the high price of professional tonsorial treatment—if he could only get the barber to co-operate. He inquired the price of a haircut . . . was told it was eighty-five cents. He inquired the price of a shave. Fifty cents . . .

"Just shave my head," he instructed, climbing into the chair. . . .

Tenement Zoning

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The good judgment exercised by our Nebraska University officials in postponing their request for zoning is appreciated by the neighborhood in which student family housing was sited. Considerable relief is felt in not having to air the differences publicly. We believed our counter action would not have been in the best interest of our university and preferred to work out a plan of mutual benefit privately and co-operatively.

The incident should prove beneficial to all Lincoln citizens. As Lincoln's transient population increases and as the city grows larger and older, the pressure for tenement housing will continue to increase. Watchfulness by the citizens is the only safeguard for keeping the dwellings and services of the city up to the high standards maintained in the past. People who believe their neighborhoods are worth saving can save them by acting quickly and boldly by making certain that the City Planning Commission and City Council hear about undesirable housing obtrusions.

University officials should likewise benefit. The incident teaches that the university must not intrude upon the privacy and property of its neighbors if it is to continue as a respected institution. The officials should see to it that the planning commission withdraw its approval on the zoning application. The neighbors can view the postponement only as a possible opening for some future move.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In behalf of our staff and all those who were personally responsible for the 14th annual Corn-husker Girls' State, we want to convey our sincere appreciation to The Star for the fine contribution made to the 1955 session.

As we look back over the full week during which 256 outstanding Nebraska girls gained a new knowledge of their responsibilities and duties as citizens, we feel confident that the project was constructive and worthwhile. We feel sure these girls have a deeper appreciation of what it means to be an American.

The generous co-operation and loyal support we received from The Star and many other busy people were responsible for whatever measure of success was attained. There is much satisfaction in the thought that we are making better citizens of these fine young people; accordingly, that we are building a better state, nation and world in which to live, through this co-operative effort.

The stout midwestern stock of which most Nebraskans are fashioned leaves them well equipped with levity even to the extent of looking on the lighter side of such a blow as the Morrill neighborhood felt last week. "Nobody will argue that Dave Grasmick isn't a real first-class cowboy," wrote E. R. Montgomery in the Mail, "but now he must be a champion. Horses apparently are too tame, as he took on the tornado that came his way and successfully rode the tail of it, although buildings on his place were demolished and a hayrack completely disappeared. What some people won't do for a thrill!"

bus Bride."

But what's her husband going to say, we wonder . . .

Current advice for anyone whose wife can't cook and who is considering moving to Brunswick, is —don't. With the closing of the one local cafe, the little Antelope County community for the first time in its history is without a public eating establishment of any kind.

Nance County Journal Editor W. H. Plourd develops somewhat of a Dagwood complex during the marrying months of June and July, in that he feels a note of caution is in order to unsuspecting bridegrooms. There was the uncomfortable warm ride one evening, for example, and the discovery that the missus had turned on the heater instead of the ventilator . . .

and such things as trading stamps going through the wash machine . . . and the use of scissors to open a can of paint . . .

"Marriage is a wonderful institution," sighs Mr. Plourd resignedly, "and we recommend it highly, but . . . things like that never happen to bachelors."

The Hardy Herald suggested numerous ways that wives could keep husbands happy, and received quite a reaction from among feminine readers, who responded with a similar list of what husbands can do to keep the little woman in a cheerful frame of mind. "We always thought husbands needn't do anything special to keep their wives happy (must be a man talking) and that just being around and accounted for was enough."

But the ladies thought differently. They listed remembering all anniversaries and special occasions, earning lots of money and turning it over to their wives, always being even tempered and considerate, shaving every day, listening while their wives talk, answering questions, taking care of the children, wiping the dishes, making the beds, cleaning, complimenting meals, selecting clothes, kissing their wives goodbye, accompanying them to all social affairs and church, asking their opinion, never talking back . . .

"If that doesn't make them happy, they are hard to please," groaned the Herald."

State Department Puts Burma Prime Minister Straight On Red China Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department served notice that Prime Minister U Nu of Burma is mistaken if he thinks the United States favors the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

Press Office, Henry Suydam said he was authorized to state that, "There has been no change in United States policy to oppose the seating in the United Nations of a representative of the Chinese Communist regime."

Suydam told newsmen he hoped this "flat, unequivocal statement" would disabuse U Nu of any idea to the contrary.

Matter Of "Timing"

The Burmese prime minister, one of the leaders of Southeast Asia, had said at a news conference in New York Wednesday he had got the impression in Washington "that most of the responsible people are not against the admission of Peiping into the United Nations." It was rather a question of timing, he had added.

U Nu's remarks stirred up a number of Congress members and led to a demand by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) that the prime minister name the "responsible officials" who gave him that impression. Bridges is chairman of the Republican Policy Committee in the Senate.

Negative Reply

Asked whether any question of timing was involved in the State Department's statement, Suydam said no — the time factor was deliberately left out of the statement.

He went on to say the statement was occasioned by "a number of questions" springing from what U Nu said only a few days after his conversations with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

DETROIT (AP)—Burmese Prime Minister U Nu Thursday said his earlier comment that top U.S. officials favored admitting Red China into the U. N. was an impression gained under the assumption the Reds would "behave."

The prime minister told a New York news conference Wednesday he got the impression in Washington "that most of the responsible people are not against the admission of Peiping into the U. N."

Soviet Farm Delegation Due In U.S. Next Week

The Soviet delegation of farm leaders which is to visit farming areas and food processing centers in the U. S. is scheduled to arrive in New York City July 16.

The group will arrive in Nebraska for "a couple of days" about two weeks later.

The Associated Press reported that according to John Strohm, Agriculture Department coordinator for the trip, the Russian itinerary will be:

"Arrival in New York City July 16, flying the next day to Des Moines; 12 days in Iowa and then to Nebraska for a couple of days — including a stop at Omaha; cutting the corner up through South Dakota; into Minnesota; to Chicago; out to California and back to Washington for a couple of days and then to New York."

The official delegation, to be accompanied by Strohm and three other Americans, will travel from Des Moines by bus, chartered at $60 a day. The Russians will foot all bills, the AP said.

Dean W. V. Lambert of the University of Nebraska, College of Agriculture, who is to be a member of an American party making a reciprocal trip to Russia, leaves Lincoln Sunday.

He will meet the other 11 members of the group at Washington, D. C. He is chairman. The delegation will fly out of New York City on July 12.

They are to arrive in Moscow July 15 and plan to remain 30 days. All private citizens who are not representing the U. S. government officially each will pay his own expenses. Officials estimated the cost at $2,500 each.

Tentative plans call for the group to cover 7,000 miles, visiting farms, industrial plants, food processing plants and other centers of agricultural development.

St. Elizabeth Blaze Damage Is Over $2,500

Fire damage of from $2,500 to $5,000 resulted early Thursday morning when a blaze broke out in the record room at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Firemen brought the blaze under control shortly after the alarm was turned in at 2:40 a.m.

Hospital business manager Donald Duncan said the blaze evidently started from a photo duplicating machine installed in the office to record hospital records. He said most of the damage resulted from smoke.

None of the records was lost. The night superintendent, Mrs. L. E. Woytaszek discovered the blaze when hospital personnel said they smelled smoke.

Sister Erharda, administrative officer, estimated the damage.

1 teaspoon salt	3 eggs
½ cup sugar	1½ cups well-chilled MEADOLAKE MARGARINE

Dissolve yeast in water. Add salt, sugar and vanilla to hot milk, stir and let cool to lukewarm. Add yeast, stir in, then add half the flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in melted shortening and beaten eggs (reserve 1 white), then add remaining flour, blending well. Knead lightly on floured cloth or board, just until smooth. Place in oiled bowl, brush top of dough with MRS. TUCKER'S SHORTENING, cover and let rise 20 to 25 minutes or until increased in bulk ¼.

Roll out into rectangle ½ inch thick. Using half the margarine, place in small pieces evenly over center of dough. Fold over one side of dough, press edges together. Place remaining margarine on top of the folded portion, fold over remaining third to cover, pressing edges together well. Turn dough ¼ around and roll out ½ inch thick. Fold ¼ of dough at each end to the center, then fold in half again. Wrap in wax paper and chill in refrigerator ½ hour. Roll out ½ inch thick and again fold in fourths, then replace in refrigerator at least 2 hours.

Using ¼ of the dough at a time, roll out again and shape as desired. Place on greased baking sheets and let rise until double in bulk. Brush carefully with remaining egg white beaten with 1 tablespoon cold water. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) 15 to 18 minutes. While still warm, drizzle rolls with thin powdered sugar frosting, if desired. Makes 3 to 5 dozen rolls.

Mrs. Tucker insures your pastry success when you use premium quality MEADOLAKE Margarine! If you don't say your Danish Pastry is better than the same pastry made with ANY other margarine, write Mrs. Tucker, Sherman, Texas, what you don't like about the results and you'll be paid for ALL ingredients PLUS $1.00 for your time. Remember, Meadolake is the ONLY Margarine TRIPLE Guaranteed for baking, spreading and seasoning!

Railroad Officials Say Boxcar Shortage Leveling Off

Heavy Yields, Late Oklahoma Cutting Blamed

Four railroads in Nebraska generally termed the grain car situation as "tight" but some said the car shortage this year "has not been as serious as previous years."

C. E. Pettit, local agent for the Missouri Pacific, said there was "some shortage for a few days during the forepart of the grain-loading season," but car requests were being handled "pretty well locally."

"There hasn't been a serious shortage this year," Pettit said, "and the situation is leveling off."

The Rock Island through the division superintendent's office at Fairbury reported a "somewhat tight situation" with "some backlog of car orders."

100 Car Backlog
The spokesman estimated a backlog of 100 car orders in the division extending from Des Moines, Ia., to Denver, and from Fairbury to northern Kansas.

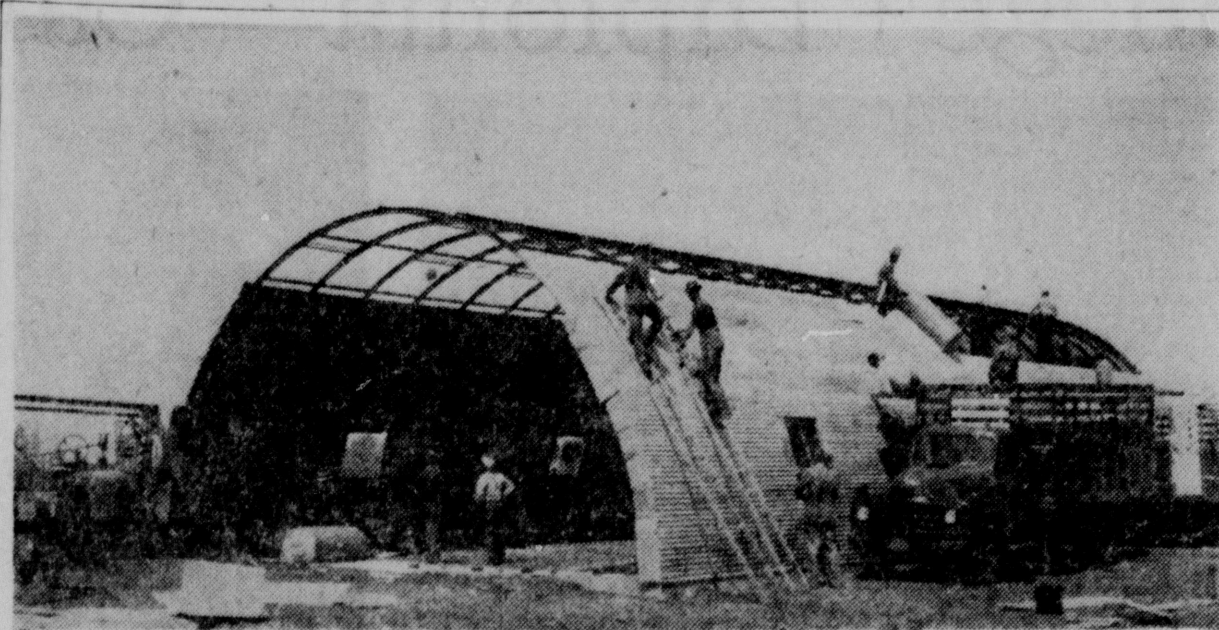

Describing the car shortage as "greater in previous years," the U.P. spokesman said the situation was partially caused by a heavier-than-expected wheat yield in eastern Nebraska and lighter in western Kansas and eastern Colorado.

However, he anticipated the situation "would ease up within the next 10 days" as cars are diverted to this area for grain loading.

'Truckers Favored'
A Burlington spokesman described the car situation as "just plain short and elevators blocked. The railroads are losing business to truckers because of the car shortage."

A. C. Bantz, general agent in the Omaha-Lincoln-Wymore division also said "prospects are not too good" with a shortage of "hundreds of cars for the eastern third of Nebraska."

Cause of the car shortage was seen by Bantz as a delay in the Oklahoma wheat harvest because of wet weather. Nebraska began harvesting at the same time Oklahoma was able to begin and wheat began pouring in all at once, he explained.

Three Operators Fined For Using Unclean Combines

McCOOK, Neb. (P)—Nebraska's new noxious weed control law has been put into operation here as Judge Wendell Cheney fined three operators on charges of using unclean combines in the wheat harvest.

Fined $10 and costs were Benny Walker, Wayne, Okla., B. W. Duffey, Ogallala, Neb., and Robert Peddigo, Kingfisher, Okla.

William Hansen, chief inspector for the State Agriculture Department's weeds division, said Bill Caldwell, Imperial, Neb., is facing a similar charge.

Hansen has been checking combines passing through the McCook port of entry and ordering operators to clean their machines before moving on to harvest jobs.

Page Citizens Construct Own Social Center

LINCOLN STAR SPECIAL
PAGE, Neb. — The Ash Grove Community Hall, constructed largely by members of the Hall Association, has been opened.

The social center is a quonset type building. Memberships were sold to residents of the community, and members did the work to keep costs down to the price of materials.

The structure is 32 by 72 feet. The floor was finished so that it could be used for dances, and a kitchen is now being installed.

The hall serves a community which includes Creighton, O'Neill, Verdigris and Page. It was constructed on the site of the old Ash Grove School, which was abandoned some years ago and purchased by Bernard Kornock of Page.

Lyle Johnson is president of the Association. Elmer Juracek is secretary-treasurer and Ben Vonack, Merle Spangler and Arden Laurson are on the board of directors.

Holiday, Long Hours Add To Complications

The State Railway Commission Thursday watched the boxcar situation as the flood of golden grain continued to roll in from Nebraska wheat fields.

But members of the commission predicted the car supply situation soon would right itself.

Two factors tended to complicate matters this week, in addition to the unexpectedly high yield.

First, it was pointed out, the big terminals closed down during the long Fourth of July week-end holiday, so cars which normally would have been unloaded during the period were late in starting back to the country elevators.

Farmers, however, harvested right on through the holiday, because of favorable weather and a fear that delay might mean loss of the crop in event of a hail storm.

In this connection, harvesting has gone on almost around the clock for the past week.

Operations customarily cease at 8 or 9 o'clock in the evening, because of moisture. But there has been little or no dew for several nights. This fact, coupled with the full moon which facilitated field operations, has kept combines running until past midnight.

The holiday shutdown at the terminals and the almost continuous field operations worked together to build up a shortage of cars at country sidings.

"I'm sure the railroads will get the cars unloaded and back to the loading points as fast as they can," commented Commissioner Richard Larson.

Commissioner Paul Pettygrove pointed out that the harvest broke almost simultaneously all across southern Nebraska this year, due to weather conditions. Normally there is a week's difference between southeast and southwest Nebraska.

State Experimental Building Still In Doubt, Says Burr

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (P)—It's still not certain whether the proposed $150,000 administration-laboratory building will be constructed at the state experimental station here.

That word came from Linus Burr Smith, head of the University of Nebraska department of architecture, who visited here to discuss plans for the building with the state farm officials.

Smith explained that the university's building committee has the money set aside for construction of the building but added that approval by the Board of Regents is not certain since the building would be the last to be allocated funds under the building committee's 10-year program.

"It would be two years, probably, before any structure approved will be ready for occupancy," J. C. Adams, superintendent of the experimental station, added.

Voters Again Face New School Issue

FALLS CITY, Neb. (P)—The Falls City Board of Education will hold a special bond election next fall for two new elementary schools as the result of petitions gathered by the Parent-Teacher Council.

The petitions, showing the signatures of 1,601 voters, were submitted to the board, by the Parent-Teacher group.

Voters here rejected a proposed $320,000 school bond issue for new buildings in 1947.

Added Office Expense Funds Draw Opposition

School Girl Dreams + College + Diploma=Career

What is uppermost in the minds of every graduate after the last strains of "Pomp And Circumstance" have died away and the mortar boards have been folded neatly and put away for another graduating class? Why, naturally, a career of some sort, preferably glamorous, is sought by most graduates before the ink on their newly-acquired sheepskins has dried.

Most high school teen-agers dream of the future years of fun at college, with, of course, hard work which will produce that coveted diploma, and then a career is such cities whose very names spell excitement—New York, Dallas, Chicago, San Francisco, Denver. These careers might last a lifetime, or at least until that very special "someone" comes into view.

Lincoln coeds, also, have their dreams for glamorous careers where they have learned when we contacted the group of very new alumnae of the University of Nebraska included in our pictures.

After four years of attending education and child development classes at the University of Nebraska Teachers College, Miss Mickey Walt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Walt, Jr., is now qualified to teach this coming fall. In our first picture, Miss Walt has already learned several tricks of the students and demonstrates one technique of polishing an apple for the teacher. This fall, Miss Walt will be a member of the Dallas, Tex., public schools faculty.

The call of the "wild blue yonder" has captivated three of our fair set of the June graduating class. Pictured are (left to right) Miss Barbara Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Turner, Miss Lynn Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Holland, and Miss Phyllis Colbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Colbert, who are absorbing a bit of atmosphere at the municipal airport.

In August, Miss Turner and Miss Holland will leave for Cheyenne, Wyo., for the United Air Lines Stewardess Training School. Following in their footsteps in September will be Miss Colbert and Miss Nancy Hemphill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hemphill.

No housewife will deny that housekeeping is a full time career. Miss Cynthia Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson, who will become the bride of Keith Britton of Sioux City, Ia., on Wednesday, Aug.

24, finds that housekeeping was not taught in Teachers College at the University of Nebraska.

In our third picture, Miss Johnson is testing her ability to whip up some delectable dessert to please her future bridegroom. We didn't find out just how successful she was with this recipe, but we are willing to bet that she will be an experienced homemaker by the time her wedding date rolls around.

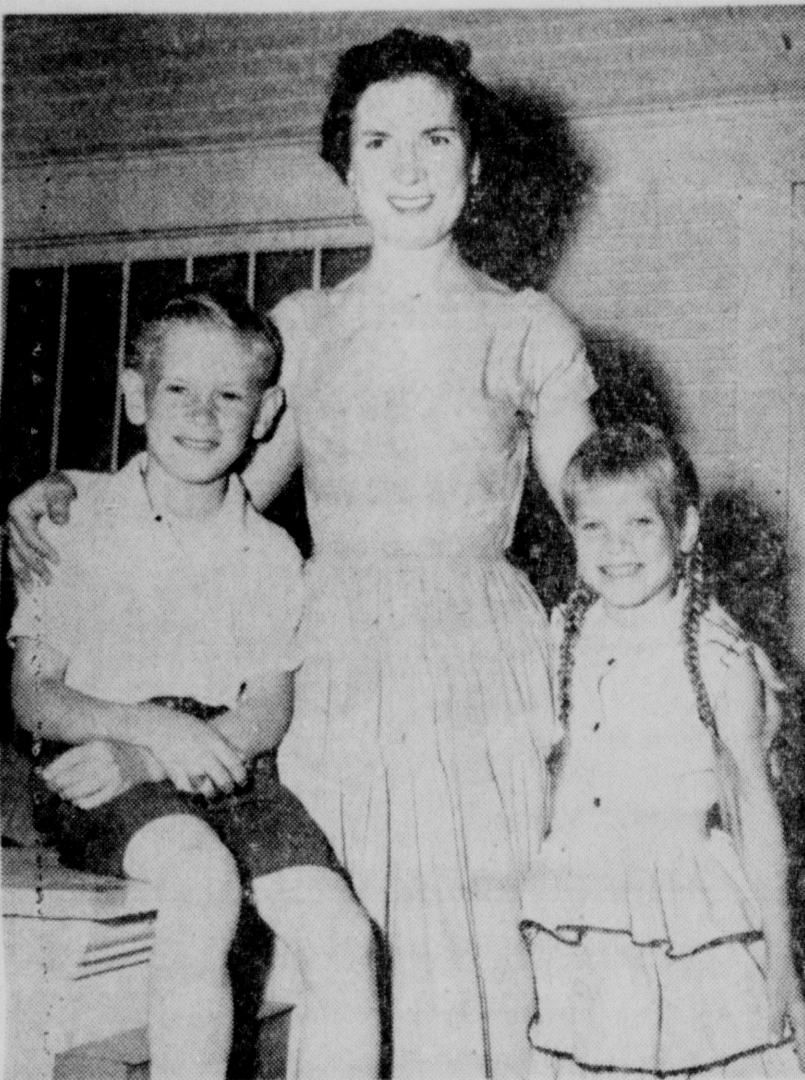

At right, another group of University of Nebraska graduates are eagerly questioning United Air Lines Stewardess Lily Brigham of Duluth, Minn. From the left are Miss Brigham, Miss Lois Simmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Simmerman,

Miss Marilyn Lane, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross W. Lane, and Miss Barbara Carter, daughter of Judge Edward Carter and

Mrs. Carter. These three careerists left for their five-to-six weeks training at Cheyenne on June 18.

Visiting In Lincoln

Arriving last week end to spend the summer months in Lincoln were Mrs. Lyman Wallin, her son, David, and daughter, Karen Louise, of Helena, Mont., who are the house guests of Mrs. Wallin's mother, Mrs. Roy Kyle. Mrs. Wallin, who will be remembered as the former Caroline Kyle, and the children were accompanied to Lincoln by Mr. Wallin who left the first of the week for Washington, D.C., where the family will now make their home and where Mr. Wallin is associated with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A Bit Of Conversation

JUST conversation this morning—and it has no particular focal point—just news—now that we have finished putting a few items in our little red book for future use—we find that we do have some chatter about this and that, and these and those, and we think you'll find it interesting.

SOMEONE told us that Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Spangler have houseguests. Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Searle Spangler, and their three children, Kathy, Paul and Eric, of Massapequa, Long Island, N.Y., arrived last Saturday and will be visiting in Lincoln until the middle of next week.

THEN, we learned that Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Grimm are back in Lincoln to stay. Mr. and Mrs. Grimm recently moved here from Omaha and are living temporarily at 1944 So. Cotner. Mrs.

Grimm will be remembered as the former Gene Mitchell, a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. Grimm also is a graduate of the University and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

LOOKING at the week end calendar, we find that Mr. and Mrs. George Peterman and their two children, Lynn and Gary, of Union City, Tenn., will be arriving in Lincoln Saturday en route home from a vacation trip to Colorado. They will be the guests of Mrs. Peterman's mother, Mrs. H. C. Mardis, and Mrs. Peterman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Beachley.

Honoring her sister, the former Marilyn Mardis, Mrs. Beachley will entertain at a morning coffee at her home next Thursday.

LEARNED that Mr. and Mrs. Roger Teddlie returned yesterday to their home in Santa Ana, Calif., after spending two weeks in Lincoln. While here, they were the guests of Mrs. Teddlie's mother, Mrs. George Wasson, and Mrs. Teddlie's brother, and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stone. Mrs. Teddlie will be remembered as the former Kay Stone.

MORE new residents in Lincoln and Mrs. Tiddie's brother are Dr. and Mrs. John J. Hanigan who have recently moved into their new home at 432 S. Cotner. Dr. Hanigan will be associated with Dr. Clarence Emerson.

SPEAKING of guests, Capt. and Mrs. R. P. Bliss and their son, Parker, who have returned to the United States after a two-year assignment in Japan, have been the houseguests this week of Miss Harriet Thompson and Miss Edna Thompson.

WHAT day would be complete without news of a bride-elect? This morning, Miss Winnie Owen, daughter of Mrs. Arthur C. Owen, is announcing the date of her marriage to Marilyn E. Friede of Nebraska City. The wedding will take place on Tuesday evening, Aug. 16, at an 8 o'clock ceremony to be solemnized at the First Presbyterian Church. Miss Owen is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Sigma Iota and Alpha Lambda Delta. She holds a diploma from the Conservatoire National de Musique in Paris, and is a Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music in London.

UNDERSTAND that one of our popular August brides-elect

Miss Beverly Ann Davis, will be honored on Sunday morning at the home of Miss Nancy Mueller. Miss Mueller and Miss Shirley Langhus will be co-hostesses at an informal brunch after which the guests will present a pottery shower to Miss Davis, who will become the bride of Dorsey Roath on Aug. 6.

Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Elsie Leusman and Virgil C. Bryant, which took place Saturday afternoon, July 2, in the chapel of St. Paul Methodist Church. In the presence of a small group of friends and members of the family, the double ring service was solemnized by Dr. Frank A. Court.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Darrell Minchow and Mrs. Dwaine Trumble of Lincoln, daughters of the bridegroom.

Jim Bryant served his father as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Bryant will make their home at 640 So. 12th.

Double Ring Service

The marriage of Miss Phyllis Hayek of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hayek of Ulysses, and Norbert Cerny, Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cerny of Chicago, Ill., took place on Saturday morning, May 28, at Blessed Sacrament Church in Lincoln. Msgr. C. J. Kraemer read the lines of the double ring service in the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends.

The matron of honor and her sister's only attendant was Mrs. Cleo Robak of Columbus, who wore an afternoon frock of blue silk taffeta accented by a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. Robak of Columbus served Mr. Cerny as best man. The bride appeared in a gown of white brocade designed in the daytime mode with a fitted bodice and full skirt. She wore a small hat of white straw and white accessories, and completed her ensemble with a shoulder corsage of orchids.

Following the service, a wedding luncheon for the members of the family was held at the home of the bride's parents in Ulysses.

Mr. and Mrs. Cerny will reside in Lincoln until the bridegroom receives his discharge.

Anti-Fire Steps At Med Campus Awaiting Funds

John K. Selleck, business administrator of the University of Nebraska, said Thursday the University was not reluctant to make recommended improvements at the College of Medicine in Omaha, but was faced with the problem of insufficient funds to meet all demands.

Selleck spoke in regard to orders of the office of the State Fire Marshal that the University of Nebraska Medical College make specific fire safety improvements within the next 90 days or face possible "drastic action" to force compliance.

A report from the office of State Fire Marshal E. C. Iverson ordered new fire exit doors in certain buildings, underground gasoline storage tanks, flameproofing of draperies and upholstery at the University Hospital, and other similar improvements.

The report followed a recent inspection by Assistant Marshal E. G. Ekstrand, who made a similar survey in 1953.

West Counties To Quit Use Of Salk Shots

Members of the Tri-County Medical Association, comprising Cheyenne, Kimball and Deuel Counties, have voted against the use of Salk polio vaccine for mass inoculations.

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, said this was the only local group in the state he knows of that decided not to give school children their second polio shots.

The State Board of Health earlier recommended the second shots be given. Some authorities however, doubt that it is safe to give the inoculations during the summer time polio season.

Dr. J. E. Thayer of Sidney, president of the Tri-County Association, said the mass inoculations will not be made in Cheyenne County.

And Dr. A. H. Shambert at Kimball said as far as he knows Kimball County will go along with the Tri-County Association decision.

Dr. R. D. Rundquist at Chappell said the inoculations may be given to Deuel County school children if Mrs. Victor Dutton, the county superintendent, decides to make arrangements for them.

Liquor Board Sets Violation Inquiries

The State Liquor Commission scheduled a hearing for July 13 on the beer license application of Fred C. Jacobsen of Homer, Neb.

A hearing is set for July 14 on the application of Phae and Perry Childress, Edison, Neb., for an off-sale beer license.

Protests were filed in both applications.

ants, senior nursing students, who also turned in the alarm.

The fire in the basement was quickly extinguished by firemen. Upon receipt of the fire marshal's recommendation in 1953, Selleck continued, the problem became whether to change the budget and re-allocate funds for use in making the changes recommended.

He remarked that he thought thus taking funds away from other items in the budget, or to wait and request funds for the purpose in the new budget.

Selleck said a request for funds to make repairs on University property at Omaha, Lincoln, Scottsbluff and North Platte, all of which was inspected in 1953, was included in the maintenance budget submitted to the Legislature.

The budget appropriated by the Legislature was one million dollars less than requested by the University. However, it was $2.8 million above the amount appropriated for the past biennium.

Pointing out other obligations which must be met by the University, Selleck stated that it was just a matter of, "Which comes first?" He said, "For instance we have a 215 bed hospital full of indigent patients which must be supported."

"We are proceeding as rapidly as possible," Selleck reported. He said as soon as funds are found to do the work, the University will comply with the demands of the fire marshal.

Selleck said the Medical College improvements would cost "several thousand dollars." He thought the changes ordered were "rather small things, which would not require a great sum of money or a great deal of work."

He remarked that he thought the importance of the changes requested had been "exaggerated."

Selleck said the University had received previous reports from the Fire Marshal's office, and had been doing "everything possible" to comply. Some work has already been done in Omaha, he said.

University of Nebraska engineers, including Charles Fowler, superintendent of buildings and grounds, were in Omaha Thursday to study the situation, Selleck said.

In Omaha, a Medical College spokesman said that the report from the fire marshal was received late Friday, but was not considered until Tuesday because of the holiday weekend.

He said, "Wednesday Dean J. P. Tollman met with all responsible people on the campus." An estimate is now being made on the costs required to make the changes asked by the Fire Marshal.

The estimate probably will be available by the middle of the week, the Associated Press said.

The Medical College spokesman added that "we have co-operated in the past to the fullest of our financial ability to meet local and state fire regulations."

Dean Tollman was out of town Thursday.

Specific orders included in the Fire Marshal's report:

Another exit must be provided in the main dining room of the hospital, or else steps will be taken to close the dining hall. Ekstrand said this has been called to the hospital's attention for the past five years.

Smoke barrier partitions, additional exits from the west lounge lecture room, re-installation of a fire escape and placement of illuminated lights at the "north" building.

Smoke barrier partitions, exit signs, changing of lights, an escape route from the fifth floor, better storage of ether, and other items at the "south" building.

Enlargement or closing of coffee shop.

Additional exit from the second floor, flammable liquid storage room, underground gasoline storage at the service building.

Another entrance at laundry building.

Flameproofed draperies and new incinerator at the hospital.

Polk County School Districts Merge

The State Committee on School District Reorganization has approved with recommendations a plan to merge 12 Polk County districts.

The estimated valuation of the new district is $5,212,660. It will increase elementary school enrollment in Osceola by about 85 pupils.

It was the fourth major reorganization project in the county and with it the county redistricting will be nearly complete.

The plan calls for merger of districts 2, 5, 15, 19, 29, 37, 39, 40, 48, 49, 53, 61 and parts of 8 and 23 for both elementary and secondary school purposes.

Of these, only three districts have been contracting for instruction. However, the new plan will not go into operation during the coming school term.

The committee also approved attaching a small part of District 8 to the Stromsburg District 10. It postponed action pending clarification of a boundary change in a plan to attach a small part of District 26 to Polk District 22.

Other plans considered by the committee were:

STAN DELAPLANE'S

POSTCARD

For a man who flies with leaden spirits, my public relations with airline stewardesses are terrible. It is unintentional. Just bad luck.

I think airline stewardesses are made of sugar and spice. Fact, I own an airline stewardess in a mild sort of way. My stewardess is Miss Carolyn Johnson of Western Air. I was chosen to sponsor her at graduation from stewardess school.

I pinned on her wings and gave her my best advice.

Stewardesses get motherly with me. I flag their maternal interest, I guess.

I have had nothing but trouble in trying to make myself agreeable. Once I was riding from Los Angeles to San Francisco. Talking to the lady in a friendly way of this and that.

It is a pleasure to chat with gifted persons and with this lady Nature had made every day Christmas.

She was pouring milk into a cup on a tray. And the better to see her, my dear, I leaned over and put an elbow on the tray. The tray, sadly enough, was hanging halfway over the edge of the little chrome counter.

When I put my weight on it, it slipped the milk on the lady as neatly as if I had picked it up and thrown it.

There was a flicker of a moment where United nearly had a passenger step into space. And I think the lady would have opened the door for me. It was pretty ghastly.

For a time I thought of stepping into the gentlemen's lounge, and asking them to hand me my service revolver with one shell.

However, the last time I stepped into the gentlemen's lounge in a plane, I had to be pried out by one of these flying angels. That amazing door snapped shut on me like a bear trap.

I fiddled with it for a half an hour while the plane began bumping down through the clouds for a landing. Finally, I saw the bell marked "Ring for the hostess." And though it was mortifying, I buzzed.

"Yes, sir," she said through the door. "Can I do something for you?"

"I'm locked in, girl," I said sharply. "Heavenly days, I wasn't ringing for coffee."

She thereupon sprung the lock with a common ordinary dime. An odd way to get out, you must admit.

These things are always happening to me and they couldn't happen to a man with nicer intentions.

I hear that some of these ladies ask to be grounded when they spot my name on the passenger list. I don't know what happens to me when I get pressurized. But believe me, it is all bad.

This is unfortunate. Because I think highly of the hostess. Even when I am falling over her feet and flinging milk in her pretty face.

I like them because they do not scald me with coffee but simply wipe the milk off calmly. I like them because they are not only pretty but fearless.

While I am looking at the ground, far, far away, the stewardess moves around calmly handing out sandwiches and coffee just as though she thought we were all going to live forever.

I guess I will too. But only because these girls have wonderful tempers.

2 Texans Plead Guilty To Burglary

Two Texans have pleaded guilty in Lancaster District Court to burglary charges.

James J. Costello, 40, of Forney, Tex., and Ira W. McDowell, 40, of Bonham, Tex., were charged with breaking and entering the Muni Gas and Coal station at 19th and Q, owned by the City of Lincoln, on July 6.

Both defendants were apprehended by Lincoln police after a night watchman saw them breaking a window in the filling station.

Judge Paul White deferred sentence of the two men pending an investigation by the adult probation officer.

11 Of 17 Killed In June One-Car Crash Victims

Of the 17 persons killed in traffic accidents in Nebraska during June, 11 died as the result of one-car accidents.

The figures point up the need of keeping speeds in check, Col. C. J. Sanders, chief of the Nebraska Safety Patrol, said Thursday.

"When the state has this high a percentage of one-car deaths, then there is evidence of too much speed for physical condition, the driver's ability, traffic or road conditions," Col. Sanders said. "All of these help to decide your safe speed."

Three of the 17 deaths resulted from two-car accidents; two victims were pedestrians and one fatality resulted from a farm tractor overturning on a county road, Col. Sanders reported.

What's The Western League Score?

Sky Sox Picture Said 'Encouraging;' No Financial Trouble, Prospects Good

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles by sports writers in the Western League cities, concerning the present condition of their local situation and the prospects for the future.

By AL GOLDFARB
Colorado Springs Gazette-Telegraph
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—The Colorado Springs Sky Sox are holding their own financially in the Western League this year.

And that's quite an encouraging bit of news in view of the fact last year Sky-Sox attendance slumped to an all-time low.

The dismal records, which were brought about by an equally dismal season in which the Sox set a Western League record for finishing 47 games out of the race, prompted a pre-season ticket sale this year, something which has helped the club considerably.

Attendance-wise, the Sox are behind some 139 fans from last year's figure. In 1954, 32,018 fans paid their way through the turnstiles for 27 home dates. This year, for the same number of dates, 31,879 have paid their way into Memorial Field.

But Sox General Manager Lew Matlin looks at the drop this way:

"Last year's 5,029 opening-day crowd gave them a terrific head start. The club won the pennant the year before and the fans turned out a little better at the beginning.

"We've had our share of bad early season weather," Matlin said, "and we expect better weather ahead. Our long home stand is coming up and our club is a contender, so I'm not worried."

Financially, the club is not in trouble. The Sox are benefitting from the new plan of the home club keeping its own gate receipts.

However, the split gate receipt plan would probably help the weaker sisters of the league a little better than the current setup.

As far as the six-team operation, the feeling here is that it is better to have six healthy teams than two weak ones in an eight-team operation.

Expansion would probably stir up additional interest in 1956, but the question is in which direction to move—south or east?

If it is to the east, then Hutchinson, Topeka or Cedar Rapids must be considered as prospects.

If it is to the south, Amarillo, Albuquerque, Lubbock and El Paso ought to be considered.

Colorado Springs isn't any different than any other city in the United States. Baseball here must compete for the entertainment dollar. Television has taken its toll. People are more judicious with the dollar than they were at one time. They are seeking to benefit as many in the family as possible with it.

But in the meantime, the Sky Sox are reasonably optimistic about their future in the Western League.

Record Crowd, Handle At Madison Opening

Lincoln Star Special

MADISON — A record opening day crowd of 2,500 and a record first day handle of $93,242 highlighted the inaugural of the ten-day race meet at Madison Fairgrounds Thursday.

The handle was 11.5 per cent over last year's first day.

Barber Leads St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL — Little Jerry Barber of Los Angeles emerged from the greatest scoring binge in the history of the St. Paul Open's first round Tuesday with a nine-under-par 63 to take the lead in the $15,000 tournament.

Barber and Arnold Palmer, the latter the 1954 Amateur champion from LaTrobe, Pa., both matched the first nine record for the Keller Course with 30s as 50 golfers smashed the par 72.

Barber had five one-putt greens on his first nine on putts ranging from two to 25 feet. He came back in 33 despite a one-over 4 on the par-3 15th, where his tee shot was buried in a bunker.

He one-putted three more greens on the second nine for a total of eight, as he missed tying Lloyd Mangrum's course record by a stroke.

Barber nursed only a one-stroke lead over Fred Hawkins of St. Andrews, Ill., and Art Wall Jr., of Pocahontas, Pa., who shot 64s.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

We're suffering from an uncommon malady these days.

The best way to describe it is to say we've got a blushing tattoo—and that's uncommon.

For the past several years we've been a walking advertisement for the Marine Corps. Engraved on a wing is a piece of artwork to equal the treasures of the Louvre, complete with the punchline USMC (pronounced us-muc) in brilliant blue.

We've never submitted a bill to the Corps asking compensation for the advertising. It was always considered a duty, since the Corps was good to feed us for so long, not particularly good but long.

After all this patriotic effort on behalf of the "brothers," we've finally been done in by the present members of the USMC (pronounced us-muc) fraternity. The art treasure has always brought a good deal of comment from allied service men—Army, Navy etc.—but we managed to parry the jibes in some way or other.

Now we're dead. The Sherman Field press box crew and some of the baseball fans finally scored a major triumph.

It all took place on the Fourth of July at Shermanfield. A Marine color guard—in blues and full war paint—was on hand for the National Anthem preceding the game with Sioux City.

As the strains of the Star Spangled Banner poured over the loud speaker, everybody rose and it had all the appearance of a snappy occasion.

Then we noticed a flaw and our tattoo began to turn pink. Worse yet, the rest of the press box gang noticed it too.

In broad daylight, the two rifle Gyrenes on each side of the colors were standing at right shoulder, arms.

We've lost track of the changes

Chiefs Win Thriller By 3-2

Chiefs Get Infielder

Infielder Jim Cleverly, Woods Cross, Utah, late Thursday agreed to terms with the Lincoln Chiefs by telephone and will report to the club Sunday.

A baseball veteran at only 25, Cleverly was released several weeks ago after starting the season with Indianapolis of the American Association. A player in the Cleveland organization for three and a half years, Cleverly has nearly three years experience in Class A and has a good batting record.

An injured shoulder in spring training gave the 5-9 left-hand hitter a late start and the Indianapolis club released Cleverly as a non-prospect for the major leagues.

Cleverly weighs 180 and throws right-handed. He played with Wichita in the Western League in 1952 and batted .288. The next year, with Reading, Pa., of the Eastern League he batted .311 and in 1954 started the year at Reading and was batting .369 when he went up to Tulsa of the Class AA Texas League where he finished the season with a .247 average.

A Game Commission spokesman said Thursday indications continue that no drawing will be necessary this year for deer and antelope hunting permits.

Only 3,000 applications had been counted up to Thursday, with some in the mail waiting to be processed.

The commission will issue up to 6,250 deer permits and 1,000 antelope permits this year.

Belgium Hits France

BARCELONA, Spain (P) — Belgium defeated France Thursday, 4-1, in the European Baseball Tournament.

Two Close Plays Cause Explosive 10th Inning

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Lincoln squeezed out a 10-inning, 3-2 victory over Des Moines Thursday night in a contest that ended with almost as much fireworks as the Fourth of July double-header.

Packed into the final frame was more than enough action to make up for the placid, but excellent, pitchers' duel that had taken place the previous nine innings.

Picking up the win for the Chiefs—the first of the series—was Fireballing Jackie (Babe) Brown who went the distance and fanned 14 Bruins enroute.

After Brown and Des Moines' Gene Fodge had battled with two runs apiece from the sixth, the lid popped off in the hectic 10th.

The dynamite charge exploded in the Bruin half of the last inning after Dave Cunningham led off with a walk and Brownie got dangerous Jim McDaniel on strikes.

Vern Morgan dropped a fly ball into right-center field which Frank Rice chased and umpire Dave Carabba ruled Rice made a shoe-string catch.

Then Frank tossed the ball to Rex Babcock at second who relayed the ball to Ted Adkins at first to double off Cunningham and end the inning.

With Morgan leading the sky-rocket barrage, the entire Des Moines team charged Carabba protesting — to no avail, of course — that Rice trapped the ball.

But Carabba had his way and the Lincoln club sat out the debate in the dugout.

After the Bruins finally took the field, Jack Falls worked Fodge for a walk to open the Chiefs' 10th and was sacrificed to second by Adkins. Dick Hall drew another free pass and the home town stock spiraled.

There almost was a stock crash — almost, but not quite.

Earl Smith hit a double play ball to the still-boiling Morgan at third Hall was forced to second. The relay to first was in time to get Smith and retire the side.

But Burdy Thurlby dropped the ball after Carabba called Smithy out and by the time the stunned Bruins got over their shock, Falls had trotted across the plate with the winning run.

The Chiefs—who pulled within three and a half games of losing Colorado Springs—and Des Moines wind up the current home stand tonight at 8 p.m.

Dick Drilling, who has won nine and lost six, will chuck for Lincoln, while the Bruins' ace, Joe Stanka, with a similar record, will provide the mound opposition.

Lincoln jumped to a 2-0 lead off Fodge in the first inning on singles by Adkins, Smith and Rice, with a walk interspersed.

The lead held up until the fourth when a pair of walks, a wild pitch and a single narrowed the gap to 2-1. McDaniel's double, a bunt single and an infield bleeder tied it up in the sixth.

Brown was tough as a boot in the tight spots and showed signs of coming into his own after a shaky first half of the season.

Jack's won two in a row to make his record 4-8.

He fanned three straight after Morgan doubled in the second and struck out three in a row with the bases loaded in the sixth, to hold the Bruins to only a single run.

Smoke Signals . . . Des Moines got good service from Bob Cooke, a rookie catcher, who subbed for the injured Don Biebel . . . Brown helped his own cause by picking Thurlby off base in the fifth and making a bare-hand stab of Cooke's liner to end the fourth . . .

Attendance was 909 . . . Hall was hit on the knee by a line drive in batting practice, but he apparently wasn't hurt seriously. He hit two-for-three . . . A delegation from White Hall saw the exciting action.

Them That's Got, Get

CHICAGO (INS) — A Chicago millionaire's wife collected $14,070 Thursday because she couldn't resist betting $100 on a horse that looked "so skinny it didn't have a chance."

Mrs. Titus Haffa placed the century note on "My Red Geflen," a six-year-old mare, at Arlington Park race track.

The appliance manufacturer's wife said she played the longshot because:

"I saw by her record that she had not run last year and had been unplaced in three starts this year.

"When she came out on the track, I decided that the poor, skinny little thing didn't have a chance. But she was such a long-shot that I had to back her."

Yanks In British Open Fade; Thomson Gains

By STERLING SLAPPEY
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Defending champion Peter Thomson of Australia stroked home a 20-foot putt on the 18th green Thursday for a fast-finishing 68 and a place among the three front runners in the British Open Golf Championship.

The handsome Aussie moved into a tie with Scotland's Eric Brown and Wales' Denis Smalldale after their rounds of 70 and 69 respectively. Each had scored 139 in 36 holes.

As the trio took command of the 85th British championship, the Old Course of St. Andrews, the mother course of golf, seemed to take life and turned back with contempt every American challenge.

None of the five Americans in the tournament now is regarded as a serious contender for the title.

Senators Lose 6-5 To Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Boston's storming Red Sox hung up their seventh straight victory 6-5 over Washington Thursday night on decisive seventh inning singles by Jackie Jensen and Grady Hatton and sharp ninth inning relief by George Sussie.

The win put the fourth place Sox 6½ games behind idle first place New York and marked their 26th victory in the last 31 contests.

Susie, third Sox hurler, replaced Ellis Kinder after two doubles and a single gave Washington two runs with none out in the ninth. Susie got Tom Umphlett to pop up, and struck out Ed Fitzgerald which turned into a double play when Pedro Ramos was cut down trying to steal second.

Hellish Bunkers

A bunker called "Hell" stopped Joe Conrad and he took a 76 for a 148. Another bunker almost as hellish on the same 14th hole trapped Ed Furgol and he had another 76 for 147.

Byron Nelson and Jimmy McHale played well until they reached the Old Course's big and rolling greens. But then they had putting troubles. Nelson had a 75 for 147 and McHale a 76 for 148.

The only American to score anything like a good round was Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh who had a two-under-par 70 on this 6,396-yard par 36-36-72 course for a 145.

All players with 149 or more were dropped, cutting the field to 50 for today's final 36 holes.

Americans' Only Chance

Before the Old Course got a grip on the Americans Thursday they were riding high. Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., McHale of Philadelphia, and Furgol of Clayton, Mo., looked like possible winners. Only Bulla appeared out of it this morning. Tonight Bulla was the lone American who appeared to have anything like a chance.

Viridon Homer Defeats Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—Bill Viridon's seventh inning home run proved to be the margin of victory Thursday night as the St. Louis Cardinals took a free-swinging 9-8 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The Cards almost frittered the game away in the seventh when the Reds moved to within a run and had the bases loaded when Ted Kluszewski lined out to retire the side.

NBA Agrees It Will Honor Johnson Ban

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Tony Petronella, president of the National Boxing Assn., said Thursday night the NBA will honor Pennsylvania's suspension of boxer Harold Johnson.

The announcement came after James A. Finnegan, secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, said he felt certain the NBA would honor the six-month suspension and that states not in the NBA "will go along with the Pennsylvania ruling."

Petronella said the Pennsylvania commission "did a fine job under trying conditions and should be complimented on its handling of the case."

He said the NBA would honor the action "100 per cent."

Johnson was suspended Wednesday night in a 19-page report of the state athletic commission covering findings on the May 6 Philadelphia bout between Johnson and Julio Mederos. The commission found Johnson "acted against the best interests of boxing" by failing to report he was ill prior to the nationally televised bout.

Illinois Indicates Support

The commission ruled Johnson was drugged. He was unable to answer the bell for the third round. "Although Pennsylvania is not a member of the NBA, I still feel the NBA and even the other states not members of the association will bar Johnson from fighting in their states for the six months," Finnegan said.

SERGEANT GETS DEATH; BUT DOUBTFUL IF HE'LL HANG

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP)—British Sgt. Frederick Emmett Dunne was sentenced Thursday to death by hanging for the murder of his German-born wife's first husband. It appeared doubtful he would pay the supreme penalty.

After a nine-day trial, a British court martial convicted the tall, 33-year-old Irishman of a charge of murdering diminutive Sgt. Reginald Watters, 30, in a British barracks at Duisburg, Germany, Nov. 30, 1953.

Legal experts considered it unlikely that Emmet-Dunne would hang. Britain has agreed not to execute British soldiers convicted of capital offenses in West Germany as long as that country does not have a death penalty.

The prosecution alleged that Emmett-Dunne, a bachelor, killed his fellow sergeant to "get possession" of Watters' attractive brunette wife Maria, 29, with whom he allegedly was having a love affair. He pleaded self-defense.

Emmett-Dunne married the widow Mrs. Watters, a former night club singer, seven months after the death. She testified in his behalf. He admitted on the witness stand that he had strung up Watters' body to make it appear a suicide.

One Way Street Plan Proposed For North Platte

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP)—A plan that would add North Platte to the growing list of Nebraska communities with one way streets has been presented to the city council.

The plan, submitted by Robert Meyer, a State Highway Department traffic engineer, would eliminate parking along Highway 30 running through the city and create two short one-way streets.

Meyer told the council traffic congestion wouldn't be relieved by "anything trivial such as preventing a turn here or there."

$20,500 Asked In 2 Accident Injury Suits

Companion suits totaling $20,500 have been filed in Lancaster District Court by Chesley S. and Della Rose Baker of 1848 C against Richard L. and Glenn C. Wright of 548 So. 53rd.

The suits arise out of a two-car accident Nov. 4, 1954, at 40th and L. A car in which Mrs. Baker and her infant son, Rex A. Baker, were passengers was in collision with a car driven by Richard L. Wright, and owned by his father, Glenn C. Wright.

In her suit, Mrs. Baker asks $10,000 for injuries. Her husband asks in his suit for $5,000 damages for medical expenses and loss of his wife's services and $5,500 for medical expenses and injuries to his son, Rex A. Baker.

Yutan Bids Set

Bids for the contract to pave six-tenths of a mile on three streets in Yutan will be opened July 28 at Yutan, the Highway Department announced Thursday. The estimated cost of the work is $35,000, to be divided evenly between the town and the federal government.

Baroch Estate Tax

The tax commissioner's office reported the state tax on the estate of Mary Baroch of Omaha, who died in July, 1954, was $31,200. The county inheritance tax was $1,704.50. The gross estate was $235,498, of which $122,320 was taxable.

Bootless Regrets

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—On his 85th birthday, W. J. Pannell recalled when he came here 84 years ago, land could be bought for a pair of boots. How come his folks didn't buy a chunk of it. "We didn't have the boots," he said.

Chevron Macaroni Casserole
(Makes 4-6 servings)

- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
- 1 10 1/2-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup grated processed Cheddar cheese (about 1/4 pound)
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Freshly ground pepper
- 1 12-ounce can luncheon meat, cut in 1/4-inch strips

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Combine soup, milk, cheese, Worcestershire sauce and pepper; place over low heat and cook, stirring occasionally, until cheese is melted. Add macaroni and luncheon meat, reserving 6 strips casserole and place meat strips on top of casserole to form chevrons. Place under broiler about 3 inches from heat for 10 minutes, or until lightly browned and sauce is bubbly.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers off to the right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. testimony he gave the House Appropriations Committee in support of the administration's foreign aid program. Part of his testimony was released for publication.

Dulles did not go into detail about any possible Russian collapse, and elsewhere in his testimony merely said Russia was under a strain trying to keep up with mutual security efforts of the free world.

But, taken by itself, the "point of collapsing" reference seemed to reflect a considerable degree of disagreement within the administration about Russia's strength or weakness as the time approaches for Big Four talks at Geneva July 18.

Strong

Only Wednesday, President Eisenhower told a news conference that no one in the administration has said that the Russians are "coming to any conference weak." He went on to specify they are strong militarily, without saying anything about any other strengths or weaknesses.

The State Department, when asked how the Dulles and Eisenhower statements could be reconciled, declined comment.

Before either Eisenhower's news conference, or the release of Dulles' testimony, it had been apparent there existed a difference of opinion among U. S. officials as whether Russia genuinely wants to end the cold war.

Some policy-makers, apparently a majority, seemed to believe Russia at least is ready to make some concessions aimed at easing tensions. An evidently smaller group has taken the stand that no end to the cold war is in sight.

However, both schools of thought have tended to agree that agricultural difficulties and the continuing arms burden are straining the Soviet economy and Moscow would like a breathing spell.

The difference of opinion has been on how much Russia might be willing to give up to gain such a rest—much or little.

The House committee record showed that on June 10 Dulles said the Soviets are "over-expanded, unable to meet their commitments." He said they were seeking

"some respite against strains" of trying to keep pace with the Western world.

"Hoping"

He testified the Russians "are unable to cope with" the fact that capitalistic countries are getting stronger, despite cold war strains, and the Russians can keep up only "at the expense of livelihood of their people."

"They have been constantly hoping and expecting our economy was going to collapse," Dulles said.

"On the contrary, it has been their system that is on the point of collapsing and our system is going along strong and vigorous."
